MEMORANDUM

Background

On December 3, 2015, Jarrod N. Tutko and Kimberly Tutko, inmates confined at the Dauphin County Prison, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania,<sup>2</sup> filed a pro se civil rights complaint pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Doc. 1. The defendants named in the complaint are Dominick L. DeRose, the Warden of the Dauphin County Prison; and Jess Weary and Robert Battaglia, who are alleged to be correctional officers at the Dauphin County Prison. Id. Along with the complaint, Plaintiff Jarrod N. Tutko filed a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis under 28 U.S.C. § 1915 and an authorization to have funds deducted from his prison trust fund account to pay the filing fee in installments. Docs. 2, 3. Attached to the authorization form is what purports to be an addendum to the complaint. Doc. 3, at 2-3. The addendum is not legible. Id. Subsequently, on December 15, 2015, Plaintiff Kimberly Tutko joined in the complaint, motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis and authorization by submitting signed signature pages for those documents. Docs. 7,8,9.

The Prison Litigation Reform Act (the "PLRA"), Pub. L. No. 104-134, 110 Stat. 1321 (April 26, 1996) imposed new obligations on prisoners who file suit in federal court and wish to proceed in forma pauperis under 28 U.S.C. § 1915, e.g., the full filing fee ultimately must be paid (at least in a non-habeas suit). Also, a new section was added which relates to screening complaints in prisoner actions.<sup>3</sup> For the reasons outlined below, the Tutkos' motions for leave to proceed in forma pauperis will be construed as motions to proceed without full prepayment of the filing fee and granted, and the Tutkos' complaint will be dismissed with leave to submit an amended complaint.

A plaintiff, in order to state a viable § 1983 claim, must plead two essential elements: 1) that the conduct complained of was committed by a person acting under color of state law, and 2) that said conduct deprived the plaintiff of a right, privilege, or immunity secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States. Natale v. Camden County Corr. Facility, 318 F.3d 575, 580-581 (2003); Groman v. Township of Manalapan, 47 F.3d 628, 638 (3d Cir. 1995); Shaw by Strain v. Strackhouse, 920 F.2d 1135, 1141-42 (3d Cir. 1990).

dismiss the case at any time if the court determines that (A) the allegation of poverty is untrue; or (B) the action or appeal (i) is frivolous or malicious; (ii) fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted; or (iii) seeks monetary relief against a defendant who is immune from such relief.

A defendant's conduct must have a close causal connection to plaintiff's injury in order for § 1983 liability to attach. Martinez v. California, 444 U.S. 277, 285 (1980).<sup>4</sup> A prerequisite for a viable civil rights claim is that a defendant directed, or knew of and acquiesced in, the deprivation of a plaintiff's constitutional rights. See Monell v. Department of Social Serv. of the City of N.Y., 436 U.S. 658, 694-95 (1978); Gay v. Petsock, 917 F.2d 768, 771 (3d Cir. 1990); Rode v. Dellarciprete, 845 F.2d 1195, 1207-08 (3d Cir. 1988).

The Tutkos' claims are set forth on a form § 1983 complaint which are routinely provided to pro se litigants and an addendum consisting of two pages which is illegible. The "Statement of Claim" section of the complaint states in toto as follows, including grammatical errors:

4. The Martinez court explained: "Although a § 1983 claim has been described as 'a species of tort liability,' Imbler v. Pachtman, 424 U.S. 409, 417 [(1976)], it is perfectly clear that not every injury in which a state official has played some part is actionable under that statute." Id.

Dominick L. DeRose no matter How you do your grievance he always sides with his officers and doesnt check facts properly before speaking to all parties in regards to all issues. And allows his officers to assault inmates w/out cause on child crimes.

Robert Battaglia when he finds out you nature of charges repeatedly will harass or assault you if he can get away with it he has assaulted an inmate by the name of Michael Minium II.

Doc. 1, at 2 & 3. As relief, the Tutkos request compensation "for mental, emotional duress and [] punitive damages awarded for the mistreatment of 8th Amendment and forcing you to live in unsanitary conditions without access to proper clean air." Id. at 3.

The Tutkos do not allege that they were assaulted by correctional officers or other inmates or suffered physical injury as the result of their confinement at Dauphin County Prison. They give no indication when the alleged wrongful conduct occurred. They make conclusory allegations that they have suffered emotional harm and have endured unsanitary conditions. However, claims for emotional harm without a prior showing of physical injury<sup>5</sup> are not cognizable under § 1983.

Pro se parties are accorded substantial deference and liberality in federal court. Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972); Hughes v. Rowe, 449 U.S. 5 (1980). They are not, however, free to ignore the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8 requires that a complaint contain a short and plain statement setting forth (1) the grounds upon which the court's jurisdiction rests, (2) the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief, and (3) a demand for judgment for the relief sought by the pleader.

Although there is not a heightened pleading standard in § 1983 cases, a § 1983 complaint in order to comply with Rule 8 must contain at least a modicum of factual specificity, identifying the particular conduct of the defendant that is alleged to have harmed the plaintiff, so that the court can determine that the complaint is not frivolous and a defendant has adequate notice to frame an answer. A civil rights complaint complies with this standard if it alleges the conduct violating the plaintiff's rights, the time and the place of that conduct, and the identity of the responsible officials.

Under even the most liberal construction, the Tutkos' complaint is in violation of Rule 8. It does not give the defendants fair notice of what the Tutkos' claims are and the grounds upon which the claims rest. There are no factual allegations with respect to where and when each defendant was involved in wrongdoing. Even taking into account the fact that the Tutkos are proceeding pro se, their complaint is not in conformity with Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Although brief and concise, it does not set forth in understandable terms what it is about which they are complaining. Accordingly, the complaint is subject to sua sponte dismissal by the court. Such dismissal will be ordered with leave to file an amended complaint. See Ala' Ad-Din Bey v. U.S. Department of Justice, 457 Fed.Appx. 90, 91 (3d Cir. 2012) (quoting Salahudin v. Cuomo, 861 F.2d 40 (2d Cir. 1988)).

Based upon the above legal standards, it is clear that any claims against the named defendants are subject to dismissal in that Tutkos fails to set forth any factual allegations against them in the complaint which are cognizable under § 1983.

Without such factual allegations, it is impossible to conclude that defendants have deprived the Tutkos of any constitutional rights entitling them to monetary damages. As such, the present complaint will be dismissed pursuant to Rule 8, as well as, 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B)(ii) as they fail to state a claim against the defendants upon which relief may be granted.<sup>6</sup>

6. While a complaint need only contain "a short and plain statement of the claim," Fed.R.Civ.P. 8(a)(2), and detailed factual allegations are not required, Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1964, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007), a complaint must plead "enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Id. at 570, 550 U.S. 544, 127 S.Ct. 1955 at 1974, 167 L.Ed.2d 929. "The plausibility standard is not akin to a 'probability requirement,' (continued...)

Although the complaint as filed fails to state a cause of action against any of the named individual defendants, it is possible that the deficiencies may be remedied by amendment. Consequently, the Tutkos will be granted such opportunity. The Tutkos are advised that the amended complaint must be complete in all respects. It must be a new pleading which stands by itself without reference to the complaint already filed. Such amended complaint should set forth their claims in short, concise and plain statements. It should specify which actions are alleged as to which defendants. If the Tutkos fail to file an amended complaint adhering to the

"[L]abels and conclusions" are not enough, Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555, 127 S.Ct. at 1964-65, and a court "'is not bound to accept as true a legal conclusion couched as a factual allegation.'"
